Every year, I am amazed again by the generous people of Greater Cincinnati and their deep commitment to the arts that make our region an exciting place to live and work.

Lisa Sauer, and our Board of Trustees for their vision and leadership.

On the ground level, thousands of volunteers, workplace campaign coordinators, CincySings participants and arts partners worked to inspire giving by sharing examples of ArtsWave in Action. More than 100 of Greater Cincinnati's brightest minds spent a weekend tackling the real-life business concerns of arts organizations during ArtsWave Tidal Tech, the region's first arts-inspired hackathon. And dozens of dedicated volunteers collectively gave more than 1,000 hours of their time to help our impact team determine how best to invest the community's generous contributions.

Since the 19th century, Cincinnati has had a vibrant and thriving arts scene. The fact that Cincinnati continues to be a place where people create and collaborate and celebrate around the arts is a testament to the ripple effect of benefits from the arts and the generosity of Cincinnatians. Together, we're creating community through the arts.

ALECIA KINTNER
President & CEO

On April 28, ArtsWave – the nation's first and largest community arts campaign – celebrated the biggest campaign ever with more than 40,000 people collectively giving $12,450,000.

A first-ever challenge grant from the Regional Tourism Network in the amount of $500,000 per year for the next three years has resulted in nearly $1,000,000 on top of our 2016 community campaign total to bolster the arts. The unprecedented partnership between ArtsWave and the RTN includes targeted marketing and engagement initiatives that showcase Greater Cincinnati's arts and cultural assets to potential visitors – tourists from out of town as well as tourists in our own backyard.

Here at home, with the help and guidance of our volunteers and community stakeholders, ArtsWave will invest Community Campaign dollars in more than 100 arts organizations across the region that are working to build a more connected community and vibrant economy. These organizations are building Cincinnati's national reputation with innovative, high-quality, community-based programming that enlivens our neighborhoods and bridges cultural divides. By fueling creativity and learning in our children and deepening young professionals' roots in our region, the arts are helping to build and sustain the workforce Greater Cincinnati needs to remain competitive in the 21st century economy.

But none of that work would be possible without the success of the ArtsWave Community Campaign, an effort that relies on a dedicated, generous army of volunteers. This year's campaign co-chairs, Jill P. Meyer and Awadagin Pratt, pushed us all to not only raise more dollars for the arts, but to engage more people in the arts through new events and partnerships. We are so grateful to Jill and Awadagin, the Campaign Cabinet, our Board President,

TIM ELSBROCK

“The arts are a huge part of the Cincinnati renaissance. We're fortunate to have such a vibrant, thriving arts sector.”

The first community arts campaign in the U.S. also is the largest.

“ The arts are necessary, not just nice. ”

ArtsWave 2016 Community Campaign Co-Chair Jill P. Meyer, president of the Cincinnati USA Regional Chamber of Commerce, says this often, and she and Co-Chair Awadagin Pratt were committed to engaging more people in the arts that make our region unique, connected and economically competitive.

Seeking out new partnerships and building on existing ones, the 2016 Community Campaign widened the reach of the ripple effect of benefits created by the arts.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE HIGHLIGHTS:

Campaign Kick-off Concert

Awadagin, a world-class pianist, coordinated a community concert that showcased his talent alongside the MYCincinnati Youth Orchestra, University of Cincinnati President Santa Ono, an accomplished cellist, and a variety of performers from the University of Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music. The special evening illustrated how the arts can fuel creativity and learning throughout people's lives.

Toast to the Arts

More than 30 local restaurants, bars and breweries gave thousands of people the chance to Toast to the Arts, letting them give back while enjoying their favorite drinks. More than 4,000 people voted at wcpo.com in the first Toast to the Arts Cocktail Competition, and ArtsWave made its first collaboration beer with Listermann and Blank Slate brewing companies.

Macy's Arts Sampler Weekend

The 30th Macy's Arts Sampler showed off Greater Cincinnati's arts assets to more than 12,000 people. Arts All Around sponsor United Dairy Farmers brought arts events and activities to more than 30 venues around the region, and the largest crowd ever — 2,000 people — enjoyed the final concert of the weekend, Be The Hero!, at Music Hall, sponsored by Dewey's Pizza.

CincySings, presented by Accenture

ArtsWave's signature choral competition included employee choirs from 19 top regional companies, and 12 finalists performed at Music Hall in front of an audience of 1,300. In its third year, CincySings was celebrated as a national best practice for workplace engagement through the arts by Americans for the Arts.

Tidal: Art x Tech Challenge

Sponsored by Fifth Third Bank and presented in partnership with Startup Cincy, Tidal: Art x Tech Challenge was Greater Cincinnati's first art-inspired, problem-solving competition. Over the course of a single weekend, 100 of the region's brightest minds — designers, coders, marketers and more — came together to tackle the real-life business issues of Cincinnati's largest arts organizations. The event created big ideas and new partnerships that are improving the arts sector.

ArtsWave Impact Evolution

2008

Shifting Patterns of Support

Fine Arts Fund saw that historic patterns of arts support and engagement were shifting. Realized we — and the arts we support — needed to change or risk irrelevancy.

78%

1 DATA

ArtsWave's citizen donors are not the same people as local arts consumers. 78% of ArtsWave donors had not visited one of the major arts institutions in the past 5 years.

2 TREND

Corporate funders asking "What is the quantifiable impact of our investment in the arts?"

3 RESEARCH

Public values two key community benefits of the arts – regardless of personal experience.

4 INSIGHT

Citizen donors saw the Fine Arts Fund brand as reinforcing negative stereotypes about the arts: expensive, exclusive, old-fashioned.

2010

Repositioning for Relevance and Sustainability

1 NEW NAME AND BRAND

ArtsWave brand designed to be inclusive, innovative, and inspiring to citizen donors.

2 NEW MISSION/ GRANTMAKING PROCESS

Arts Community Impact Agenda – two goals aligned to what the public values:
1) More Connected Community;
2) More Vibrant Economy.

2012

Inspiring New Support and Innovation

$11 MILLION ● $12.25 MILLION

3 INCREASED SUPPORT

In the aftermath of the Great Recession, new brand and agenda helps to rebuild the Community Campaign – flat at $11 million in 2009, 2010, and 2011; increasing steadily to $12.25 million (largest ever) in 2015.

4 IMPACT & INNOVATION

Arts organizations began learning to measure their community impact and innovating new ways to increase that impact.

2015

Charting a Path to the Future

1 BLUEPRINT FOR COLLECTIVE ACTION

ArtsWave introduces a 10-year action plan to drive collective impact on community goals important to citizen donors.

2 COLLECTIVE ACTION INSPIRES INCREASED INVESTMENT

The more we work together to create impact, the more relevant we are to the community and the more the community invests in the arts, which allows for even greater impact.

STORIES

FUELING CREATIVITY AND LEARNING
Project 38, Cincinnati Shakespeare Company's innovative education initiative, gave high school students at more than three dozen Greater Cincinnati schools a deeper understanding and appreciation for Shakespeare. By actively creating and performing art, the students also learn to write, think, solve problems and map out plans.

PUTTING CINCINNATI ON THE MAP

Helping to build Greater Cincinnati's reputation for a thriving and world-class arts scene, the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra performed in January at Lincoln Center in New York City. The performance from the CSO and Director Louis Langrée was part of the 50th anniversary season of the Great Performers Series and won accolades from national press.

2016 Campaign Special Thanks

Recognition goes to the following companies, organizations and individuals for additional support:

- The Western & Southern Financial Fund, which made a $50,000 challenge grant to encourage support from new companies to the campaign.
- The Carol Ann & Ralph V. Haile Jr./U.S. Bank Foundation, which matched individual donations given outside workplace campaigns.
- The Cincinnati Reds, for being an incredible partner and supporter of the arts that make our region great.
- Macy's, for another amazing year of the Macy's Arts Sampler, with help from Arts All Around sponsor United Dairy Farmers and Dewey's Pizza, which sponsored the Be The Hero! concert at Music Hall.
- Accenture, Cincinnati Arts Association, the Aronoff Center for the Arts, Cincinnati Music Hall staff and Enquirer Media, for their support of CincySings. And thanks to Drew Lachey for hosting CincySings and the judges - John Morris Russell, Kathy Wade and Bob Herzog.
- Fifth Third Bank, for helping make the first Tidal: Art x Tech Challenge a reality, with additional support from StartUp Cincy and Feasty.
- The University of Cincinnati College-Conservatory of Music, Awadagin Pratt, Santa Ono and Peter Landgren; MYCincinnati Chamber Orchestra, Paula E. Bressman, Ryan Beeler, Michael Carr, Patrick Lechner, Andre Megerdichian and Steve Stratton, who volunteered their time and talents and Dhani Jones who served as master of ceremonies for an amazing campaign kick-off concert.
- World Pac Paper and JK Howe Co. and Chick-fil-A for proving significant in-kind support.
- And our heartiest thank you to all the arts organizations, large and small, that provided venues, activities, speakers, tickets and more to make the ArtsWave Community Campaign and ArtsWave events successful!
